Reviewing Your Past Giving

Giving happens in many forms. You can donate your time and talents through volunteering, or you can use your financial resources to support causes you care about. Look back at your past giving to determine if your giving aligns with your interests or if you want to change course.

What organizations do you support and how do you support them?

What was your most meaningful or rewarding charitable investment or volunteer experience?

What was your most disappointing charitable moment?
CONSIDER
YOUR CHARITABLE MOTIVATIONS

Take a moment to think about the following questions. Add any thoughts that might direct your charitable investments.

How would you improve the world?

What makes you happy?

What makes you sad?

Do you want to help today, focusing on immediate needs?

Do you want to address root causes and seek long-term solutions?

What do you believe is the best use of your charitable dollars?

What results do you want your charitable investments to achieve?
WHAT DO YOU VALUE MOST?
Start by circling values that resonate with your core principles and crossing out those that have little influence on your life.

Identify Your Interest Areas

Find the interest areas that matter most to you. Start by circling areas you like and crossing out areas that do not interest you. Then, try to narrow your focus to three areas.
Define Your Community

Consider the community or communities you want to support. This could mean a geographic area or a population, for example, individuals with disabilities, religious groups, the elderly, or causes related to animals. Are there specific cultures or regions you care about? Circle or list specific countries, populations or community groups.
DEFINE YOUR Giving Guidelines

You may consider dividing your giving, allocating percentages for each area. Or, you may prefer to set guidelines for others who may participate in your giving.

FAMILY EXAMPLE

- 50% allocated by parents
- 25% allocated by child 1
- 25% allocated by child 2

CORPORATE EXAMPLE

- 75% allocated by executive team
- 25% reserved for employee matching gifts
Use this graph to illustrate your own giving guidelines.

Establish Your Specifics

You may want to identify specific causes or organizations you feel strongly about supporting.

EXAMPLES

We believe in the importance of public education, at both K through 12 and higher education levels. We support the School District Education Foundation and the State University.

We are interested in visual and performing arts. We wish to support the Museum and the Orchestra.
You can choose to outline more stringent rules for your giving.

EXAMPLES

We will only support programs benefitting our metro area.

Under no circumstances will we support organizations that:
Formulate Your GIVING PLANS

After looking back at your previous responses, you may wish to formalize a giving plan or mission statement to clarify your goals and priorities. Or, you can use this section to simply record your thoughts on giving.

SOME QUESTIONS TO PONDER:

Did anything surprise you?

Do you plan to make any changes after completing this Giving Guide?

Is there anything you would like to share with future generations?

Did a mission statement emerge?

MISSION STATEMENT

We seek to improve literacy levels in our community. We do this by supporting adult and child literacy programs through donations and volunteering to tutor youth and adults.

Think of this Giving Guide as a living document. You can come back periodically and make updates as you evolve in your giving, and it can serve as a reminder or motivation as you make your charitable decisions.

If you want assistance carrying out your giving plans, we can help organize and maximize your charitable gifts through a charitable giving account, also known as a donor-advised fund. Charitable giving accounts allow you to maximize your giving, simplify your donations and give to the causes you love.
