

Giving WHILE LIVING

MAKE THE WORLD BETTER TODAY

Meet the Price Family.

It is an honor to partner with them and share the story of their philanthropic journey.

Inspiring family philanthropy.

When Judie and Gary Price were raising their young family, they taught their five children to work hard, develop their talents – and always give back. The Prices were thankful for their good fortune, and wanted to share it with others. It's a mindset they've inspired in the next generation.

"Giving in our family started when we were very young," says son Craig. "We were raised that it is better to give than to receive, even in small ways." Daughter Dana agrees. "To be born in this family – gratitude and giving back have always been very important."

Early on, the Prices chose The Community Foundation Martin-St. Lucie as their philanthropic partner. "The Community Foundation knows where the needs are and which organizations are most effective in meeting them," says Judie.

Through their charitable Funds at The Foundation, the Prices provide support for a myriad of organizations and causes, from music and the arts to basic human needs such as food, shelter and clothing. The Funds are also a lasting way to honor their children who have left us far too soon, and carry on good work in their names.

"Tomorrow is not guaranteed for any of us," says Craig. "We were taught to act on our impulse to give, because the needs are urgent."

The Price family's generosity has left a lasting impact on our community. They are an inspiration for others to follow in their philanthropic footsteps.
